Caucasus Journal of Social Sciences Manuscript Submission For 2020

The Caucasus Journal of Social Sciences is a peer reviewed research journal that aims to publish reports of original research, reviews, and articles of importance to the peoples of the Caucasus region and to the people who has interest, and who work on this region, and not only.

The CJSS raises issues that have not been covered yet and need to be analyzed from the scientific point of view.

Caucasus Journal of Social Sciences is Published by The University of Georgia

These include, among others, anthropology, archaeology, economics, education, geography, history, information science, international relations, law, linguistics, politics, psychology, public health, and sociology. Papers in the humanities and other disciplines will be considered if they are related in some way to one or more of these disciplines. The Journal considers papers for publication that deal with academic disciplines studying human aspects of the world.

The journal is published annually.
ISSN 1512-3677

Manuscript Submission Deadline is the 15th of March 2020

Authors should submit articles that have not been previously published, except that articles previously published only in Georgian or Russian may be submitted in English. Authors should submit only articles that have not also been submitted to other journals.

Language

Authors should submit manuscripts in English language with English abstracts of no more than 150 words. Papers should be written in a concise manner. Manuscripts with poor English will be sent back to the author for correction. Word Limit: 3000-5000.

Manuscript Categories

- a. Research papers
- b. Theoretical articles
- c. Scholarly critiques
- d. Commentary articles
- e. Review articles

Review Process Stages:

Authors send manuscripts to the Managing Editor. The Managing Editor introduces the manuscript to the Editorial Board members.

Articles selected for preliminary consideration by the Editorial board will be sent to subject matter experts for review. Names of authors and reviewers are kept confidential.

The experts revise the manuscript, make comments or/and notes, give recommendations, if necessary. As soon as the revision process is finished, the manuscript is sent back to authors to make further changes, if necessary.

The author sends the finally revised manuscript to the Managing Editor. The Editorial Board members look through the article to ensure that the manuscript is revised according to the recommendations, comments and notes.

After successful peer review the manuscript is sent to editorial and formatting reviews.

Style Requirements

Caucasus Journal of Social Sciences has adopted the publication style manual of the American Psychological Association (APA) as the guide to follow when submitting manuscripts.

Any paper that does not follow APA style will not be considered.

Those who are interested in submitting papers to the CJSS may contact the editor for more information about Style Requirements or visit APA Style Web Resources. The URL links below provide additional information and assistance for APA style requirements.
